GREENSBORO, N.C. – Nearly 100 Greensboro Regional REALTORS® were recognized Monday for their community involvement and service to the real estate industry.

In all, 98 REALTORS® were recognized as the Greensboro Regional REALTOR® Association’s REALTORS® of Distinction at a ceremony at the Greensboro Regional REALTORS® Association offices on Feb. 10.

The REALTORS® who were recognized were involved in more than 120 total community organizations. Their community involvement included serving on various local boards to working with schools and churches.

“Congratulations to the Greensboro Regional REALTORS® Association REALTORS® of Distinction class of 2019,” said GRRRA President Ray Alexander. “These REALTORS® exemplify the best characteristics of a REALTOR® through their civic, educational, association and charitable works.”

GRRRA’s REALTOR® of Distinction is a new program based on a point system of qualifying activities in which a member participates.

The REALTOR® of Distinction recognition is presented once a year to the most qualified REALTORS® based on their participation and production from the previous year.
