ROCKINGHAM COUNTY, N.C. (April 21, 2020) – Rockingham County had 258 homes go on the market in the first quarter of 2020, a 9.3 percent increase from the same time the previous year.

There were 180 homes sold, a 10 percent drop from this time in 2019, according to statistics provided by Triad MLS.

The average sales price was $166,541 and the median sales price was $137,500 during this year's first quarter, increases of 21.4 percent and 9.3 percent, respectively.

The housing supply was set at 2.9 months, a 12.1 percent decrease from this time last year.

"With the average home price in Rockingham County going up and the average total days on market going down, now is a WONDERFUL time to market your home for sale," said Kris Cayton, chair of the Rockingham County Council at GRRRA.
