GREENSBORO, N.C. – One hundred Greensboro Regional REALTORS® were recognized Monday for their community involvement and service to the real estate industry.

The 100 REALTORS® were recognized as the Greensboro Regional REALTOR® Association’s REALTORS® of Distinction at during a virtual ceremony hosted by the GRRRA on Feb. 22.

The REALTORS® who were recognized were involved in more than 200 total community organizations. Their community involvement included serving on various local boards to working with schools and churches.

“Congratulations to the Greensboro Regional REALTORS® Association REALTORS® of Distinction class of 2020,” said GRRRA President Heather Dodson. “These REALTORS® exemplify the best characteristics of a REALTOR® through their civic, educational, association and charitable works.”

GRRRA’s REALTOR® of Distinction is a new program based on a point system of qualifying activities in which a member participates.

The REALTOR® of Distinction recognition is presented once a year to the most qualified REALTORS® based on their participation and production from the previous year.

For a full list of the 2020 REALTORS® of Distinction recipients, visit grra.org, go to the membership tab, then down to “Awards & Recognition” and over to “REALTOR® of Distinction”.
